DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to new claims 8-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 8-20 (new) are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Young et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,532,754/ or "Young" hereinafter).

Regarding claims 1 and 4, Young discloses a data receiving apparatus (Figs. 22A, 22B & 24 for a receiving apparatus) and its corresponding method comprising:

"reservation accepting means for accepting reservation requests of one or more data broadcast programs that are sequentially transmitted in groups over ones of multiple channels such that programs in different channels can overlap each other in time", i.e., reservation is established based on customer profiles with customer's customized programs and times for different programs in different channels can be broadcasted overlap in times (as illustrated in Figs. 1-5 for a program guide providing a grid with all different programs on different channels can be reserved for broadcasting to users based on their profiles, col. 6/lines 45-64 for program with overlap times, and col. 7/line 64 to col. 8/line 34 for repeat programs on different times as Lucy Shows with assigned identifier);

“a reception and storing means for recording one data broadcast at a time” (Fig. 22A/items 232 & 236 for these functions as Record Memo RAM 236 stores a requested or reserved list of recording programs of the user at the receiving device, and the schedule memory 232 manages the scheduling function, see col. 17/line 7 to col. 18/line 57 for more details on the recording function);

“grouping means for grouping the reserved data broadcast programs into one or more groups in which each group contains programs that interfere each other with respect to recording by the reception and recording means”, i.e., channels can be grouped together based on their assigned priority and even to different programs on different channels or different programs on the same channel (col. 16/lines 39-58 & col. 26/lines 15-49 for favorite channels can be also grouped);

“priority assigning means for assigning a unique recording priority to each group and to each program within a group such that all of the reserved repeating programs can be recorded in sequence according to the assigned priorities”, i.e., channels can be grouped together based on their assigned priority from the user and even to different programs on different channels or different programs on the same channel (col. 8/lines 9-34 for repeat programs can be assigned unique identifiers for sequentially recording as desired, and col. 16/lines 39-58 for priority assignment addressed).

As for claim 9, Young further discloses “comprising means responsive to a request to cancel a reserved program for re-prioritizing all remaining reservation requests” (Fig. 21/item 160 for a cancel/undo means if a request function is entered earlier, then, the canceling request causes re-prioritizing all (pending) reservation requests, col. 16/line 59-col. 17/line 7).

Art Unit: 2611

As for claim 10, Young further discloses “means responsive to a request to add an additional program to the reserved programs for re-prioritizing all reservation requests”, i.e., the user can add an additional program to the reserved (recording) programs if he wishes, then, the adding request causes re-prioritizing all (pending) reservation requests (Fig. 12, and col. 10/lines 38-45).

As for claim 11, Young further discloses “means for identifying reserved programs that overlap directly with each other or that indirectly overlap via another reserved program and means for placing all such directly and indirectly overlapping programs in the same group”, i.e., channels can be grouped together based on their assigned priority from the user and even to different programs on different channels, with overlap times either directly or indirectly, and to different programs on the same channel (col. 8/lines 9-34 for repeat programs can be assigned unique identifiers for sequentially recording as desired, and col. 16/lines 39-58 for priority assignment addressed & col. 4/lines 1-47 for the objective of this system and method for recording of at least two programs provided sequentially at different times on different channels).

As for claims 12-16 and 17-20, these claims for “an apparatus and a method together with a computer program product for receiving in a priority sequence broadcast data programs that are sequentially and repeatively transmitted in groups over one of multiple channels such that programs in different channels can overlap each other in time” with same limitations as earlier addressed are rejected for the reasons given in the scope of claims 8-11 as already discussed in details above.

Conclusion

3. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
